

Student Researcher

We're looking for someone with a passion for research and insight to join our team at Bristol SU! You'll get stuck into everything from recruiting participants and collecting data, with opportunities to dive into analysis and discover what students really think. One day you might research ways to improve the academic experience of a demographic group, and the next you could be uncovering how students feel about SU events, services, and support. We are specifically looking for a University of Bristol student with technical qualitative or quantitative research experience, who wants the opportunity to further develop their research skills. If you're keen to turn student voices into real change, we'd love to hear from you!
